

Recipients of the 2010 Winston Churchill Memorial Trust Fellowships

Churchill Fellowships are intended for travel, typically short term of between three weeks and three months duration, for intensive investigative research.

The Trust helps all kinds of New Zealanders – including community workers, engineers, business people, actors, teachers, nuns, artists – to travel overseas and bring back with them new insights and understanding that will enrich their community and, ultimately, New Zealand as a whole.

Debbie HAGER: will travel to Australia and the United Kingdom to investigate the provision of specialised women's refuge services for women who, because of physical disability, mental illness or substance abuse, are unable to access conventional refuge and domestic violence services.

Ruth HARVEY: will visit a number of museums and art galleries in the United States of America to explore innovative strategies employed to effectively engage young adults with art and cultural heritage.

Gary HOLMES: will travel to the United Kingdom, Canada and the United States of America to undertake a study of leading business improvement districts which have a partnership with a transport management association.

Kiri JARDEN: will travel to the United Kingdom to investigate how organisations enable, promote and develop public arts and public art strategies, particularly the processes for funding and prioritising public art projects.

Dr Donald KERR: will travel to the United Kingdom to research his publication on the notable early New Zealand book collector, Dr Thomas Hocken.

Jennifer MARGARET: will visit individuals and organisations in Canada and the United States of America who are working as allies in support of the aspirations of indigenous peoples and other marginalised groups.

Graeme NORTH: will visit Centres for Appropriate Building Technology in Australia, Wales, France and the United States of America, to investigate the possibility of establishing a New Zealand centre for appropriate technology and ecological building.

Phillippa PITCHER: will travel to the United States of America and Canada to research trusts and not-for-profit organisations that provide a range of community services designed to increase community wellbeing.

Sarah PRITCHETT: will travel to the United Kingdom to visit organisations that successfully engage with the community to promote and encourage waste minimisation.

Sally RAUDON: will travel to England, Scotland, Norway and Sweden to investigate how funerals and death care are conducted in countries with strong secular traditions.

Francis STARK: will travel to the United Kingdom to research the use of digital technology to preserve and access audiovisual archives.

Margaret STEWART: will undertake an investigative tour of schools in the United Kingdom, Hong Kong and China that specialise in teaching dyslexic students.
